

GCR

GLOBAL CONSTRUCTION REVIEW

News

Hill International to project management Saudi Arabian bank development

3 September 2018 | By GCR Staff

US firm Hill International has won a three-year contract from Saudi Arabia's Bank Aljazira to provide project management services for the pre-design, design, and construction of its regional centre in north Riyadh.

Hill International said in a press statement that the project would be one of Riyadh's landmarks, and would reflect Bank Aljazira's image and its alignment with Saudi Arabia's National Vision 2030.

Abdo Kardous, Hill International's Middle East president, said: "We are honoured by this appointment and look forward to providing Hill's expertise and experience in delivering a quality project on time and within budget while supporting the region's plans for economic growth."

Hill International recently announced a new chief executive.

Image: An aerial view of Riyadh (Nasa)